Visit to a dentist might be quite challenging for an individual with an autism spectrum disorder. To help reduce the stress and acquaint with what happens during a visit, social narratives can be used.

To Make:
1. Check with your dentist regarding specific steps.
2. Modify the narrative, if needed.
3. Print out the social narrative.
4. Laminate the social narrative.
5. Cut the pages in half along the black lines.
6. Use a ring or other means to put the pages together into a mini-book.

To Use:
1. Create a quiet time to sit with the individual.
2. Explain that you are going to read a narrative together.
3. Read the narrative (or have the individual read the narrative).
4. Answer any questions, if the individual has any.
5. Try to make time to review the narrative multiple times prior to encountering the challenging situation.
6. Have the narrative available for reference during the challenging situation.

Materials provided are samples only! They may need to be individualized to meet the particular needs of a person with an ASD!
Going to Dentist’s Office

Sometimes, I need to go to a dentist.
When I come into the dentist’s office, I need to say my name to the receptionist.

My name is ______________

Then, I need to wait in the waiting area until the assistant calls my name. I need to wait quietly!
When my name is called, I will follow the assistant quietly to the dentist’s office.

The assistant will ask me to sit down in a chair that goes up and down. This chair is fun!
The assistant will put a bib on me to keep my clothes clean.

The dentist will turn on bright lights. If I do not like the lights, I can close my eyes.
I will open my mouth and lie still and not move my head.

The dentist will examine my teeth with different tools. This is OK!
The dentist will count my teeth with special tools. This is fun!

The dentist will brush my teeth with a special brush and toothpaste.
If I am scared, I can use my relaxation techniques
